GEN. ROBERT RANSOM white and colored people, and trouble was rearred when the Register's correspondent wrote.

DEATH OF A FAMOUS CAROLINIAN AND GALLANT MAJOR-GENERAL.

Sketch of His Eventful and Brillian Career-His Services in Two Armies-

At Work Since the War.

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

NEWBERNE, N. C., January 14 .- General Robert Ransom, brother of United States Senator Mat. Ransom, died this morning at his home, in this city, of congestion of the lungs, in the sixty-fourth year of his age. General Ransom entered West Point Military Academy in 1846, graduating in 1850, and was assigned to the First dra-goons; was with Colonel Sumner in New Mexico, and engaged in scouting over the Mexico, and engaged in scouting over the western frontier for four years. In 1534 be was placed on duty at West Point as instructor of cavairy while Colonel R. E. Lee was superintendent. In 1855 he was made first lieutenant, with a view to his special appointment as adjutant, and was with his command through the border troubles in Kansas and Colorado up to 1861.

TO HIS STATE.

He then resigned his commission in the United States army and tendered his services to his native State—North Carolina. His appointment as colonel of the First North Carolina cavalry was made by Governor Ellis and the regiment was formed at Ridgeway as rapidly as possible, and on October 13th started to Virginia. There he participated in the guarding of the line about Manassas and led in the first encounter between the cavalry forces of the two armies. General Ransom rose regularly in rank to that of major-general. He was in active service throughout the war in the Army of Northern Virginia or that of the West.

IN CIVIL LIFE. TO HIS STATE.

After the war he was agent for the National Express Company at Wilmington, N. C., and marshal of that city in 1865. His latest employment has been that of assistant engineer in charge of Government improvements upon the water-courses of Eastern North Carolina. The General was twice married and leaves a widow and several children. He was a gallant officer, a courteous gentleman, and a devott Christian a zalous member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and one of the vestrymen of Christ Church. His death has cast a shadow of gloom over the whole community. IN CIVIL LIFE.

DREDGING ROANOKE RIVER. The Snug Sums of Uncle Sam's Money Paid by the Disbursing Officer.

Paid by the Disbursing Officer.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]
Scotland Neck, N. C., January 14.—Captain Charles Schuster, who is in charge of the Government work in dredging Roanoke river, gives your correspondent some interesting items concerning the work. He began work on the river near Scotland Neck in September, 1889, and for the two years and four months he has been here he has paid out in the town for supplies and wages over eighteen thousand dollars. In the three counties of Halifax, Martin, and Washington he has used $85,000 appropriated by Congress for this river.

The dredging extends from Plymouth, in Washington county, to Weldon, in Halifax. The work has been going on five years, and during the time they have removed thirty-five thousand obstructions, such as trees, rocks, logs, and snags, and have done a great deal of blasting. Boats drawing seven feet of water may now go as high up the river as Weldon at any time of the year.

Captain Schuster says that he has work

Captain Schuster says that he has work enough on the river to last fifteen years if Congress continues the appropriations, and he continues his headquarters at Scotland Neck for the convenience of telegraph and express. The force is on the river several miles from Palmyra and is going down toward Plymouth.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 14.—The reports to the State Medical Board show that the grip is much more prevalent as well as fatal in the Piedmont section than elsewhere in North Carolina. It runs into pneumonia, and there were never as many cases of the latter disease. The well people in many neighborhoods are not numerous enough to nurse the sick.

Asheville, N. C., January 14.—The rain beginning here Monday has been almost incessant until this morning, when the wind shifted and the weather cleared. The French Broad river is out of its banks, and some of the families employed in Graham's cotton-mills have had to move out of their houses. Passengers on the Tennessee branch of the Western Carolina railroad are transferred around a wash-out trestle fifteen miles below here. There are several serious breaks on the Murphy branch, beyond Balsom mountain, and probably trains will not run into Murphy for two or three weeks. (Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

A NEGRO FIEND LYNCHED. Arrest of the Alleged Lynchers-Crushed to Death by an Engine. (Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

Danville, Va., January 14.—A special to the Register gives information of a great sensation in the Banister neighborhood, Pittsylvania county. David W. Mitchell is a well-known farmer of that section, and had in his employ a negro youth named George Towler, aged about twenty years. The neero was in the haut of sleeping in Mr. Mitchell's room, and was regarded as a good boy. On Sunday night Mrs. Mitchell heard a noise in the room of her title daughter, aged about eleven years, and went into the room to see what was the matter. Upon entering she was horrified to find that the negro was in the room for improper purposes, and the little girl was almost frightened out of her wits.

Mrs. Mitchell at once raised the alarm and Mr. Mitchell rushed into the room, seized the negro, and tied him. He then sent for Mr. J. D. Cook, who went to the house early Monday morning and took the negro in charge. In the afternoon J. C. Mitchell and D. Lee Mitchell, brothers of the little girl, arrived upon the scene, accompanied by Dook Haymore. They took Towler from the officers and, against the protest of the Justice, started off with him to the woods, declaring that they meant to lynch him.

LYNCHED.

On the following morning the body of Towler was found swinging to a limb within three miles of Mr. Mitenell's house and near by the public road. A jury of inquest was summoned and after viewing the body rendered a verdiet that the decoased came to his death at the hands of J. C. and D. L. Mitchell, Dock Haymore being accessory.

W. D. Motley, Jr., a foreman in the Riverside Cotton-Mills, was killed last night on the Richmond and Danville railroad near North Danville. He lived near Ringgold and was walking home on the railroad. There was a dense fog at the time audit was also raining. He had an umbrella raised and failed to see or hear an approaching freight train. The engine struck him and crushed him to death, severing the head from the body. Decased was twenty-four years old and unmarried. He was a worthy young man and nighly regarded by all who knew him.

The remains of the late Mrs. Mary A. Webb were taken to Norfolk to-day for burial.

DANVILLE'S PUBLIC MEETING.

Insurance, Railroad Discrimination, at the Debt Settlement Discussed.

(Special telegram to the Dispaces.)

Danville, Va., January 14.—A largelyattended meeting of citizens was held here to-day to consider the question of insurance, the Railroad Commission, and the State debt. Mr. J. G. Penn, president of the Tobacco Association, presided, and the first question called up was that of insurance. The committee previously appointed reported that the local Board of Underwriters were expecting to hear definitely from the State Board to-morrow, and a postponement of this question was asked. (Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

On motion it was agreed to postpone until Saturday afternoon, when another meeting will be held.

RAILROAD RATES.

A resolution was then introduced setting forth that Danville's business was suffering from unjust railroad discrimination, and calling upon Danville's representatives in the Legislature to use their best offices to secure such legislation as would give Danville the same basis of rate as that enjoyed in other Virginia cities.

Judge A. M. Arken and other citizens spoke to the resolution and it was unanimously adopted. A committee with Judge Aiken as chairman was then appointed to visit Richmond and lay Danville's grievances before the House Committee on Railroads.

Three sub-committees were also appointed to gather facts and figures to be used by the Legislature committee in presenting Danville's case in Richmond. The meeting was a representative one, and those who attended were in earnest as to the work in hand.

LAID ON THE TABLE. RAILROAD RATES

After this business was disposed of a resolution was offered declaring the people of Danville were in favor of the Olcott settlement of the State debt, but Mr. W. E. Boisseau, commissioner of revenne, made a speech in opposition to the resolution, and it was laid on the table.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

Referring to an article published in your paper Sunday. December 27th, from your crrespondent at this place, we feel that it is due to Rev. W. P. Jorden, the former pastor of the Methodist church here, to state that during his stay, covering a period of four years, he preached acceptably to all who had a right to criticise, and those who knew him intimately and heard him preach frequently loved and appreciated him most. His influence for good was at all times exercised and felt, and in every good work he rendered useful help, the result of which is now visible over the entire circuit. He left this place beloved by all who knew him as pastor, friend, and citizen. Respectfully,

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. New York, January 14 .- The stock market was in the main comparatively quiet to-day, with a drooping tendency during most of the time, and the operations re-culted in material losses for a few stocks and immaterial changes for the rest. The death of the heir presumptive to the British throne had its influence in London this morning and there was great expectation on the part of bearish traders that the demoralization of the foreign markets in consequence of this event would be reflected here by liberal sales for toreign account. In a measure this from foreign sources were easily absorbed, and while they gave a heavy temper to the earlier dealings they had little influence later in the day and the stocks which have an international market were in the main no weaker than the remainder of the list.

no weaker than the remainder of the list.

A GENERAL DECLINE.

The market was rather unsettled all day long, and white, after the opening decline, which extended to I per cent. In Missouri Pacific, 1% in Sugar, and fractional amounts in the rest of list, there was a firm tone during the forencon, later prices generally settled away and failed to raily at any time. The movement, however, was slow, and in most stocks amounted to small fractions only. The Industrials were firm, and Sugar, after its marked loss at the opening, actually scored a fractional advance during the day. CHESAPEARE AND OHIO STRONG.

CHESAPRAKE AND OHIO STRONG.

The strong point in the market was the Chesapeake and Ohio shares, and the preferred stock showed the most pronounced strength, while the common was specially active. The general list was unusually barren of feature, and while the low-priced shares were in many cases active they were moved in narrow limits, and their final changes are generally instanticant. St. Paul was specially active again and fairly led the movements of the day, its final loss being larger than that of any other stock.

[THE CLOSE QUIET AND WEAK. THE CLOSE QUIET AND WEAK

The close Quiet and weak at about the lowest figures of the day. The list is almost in variably lower, but the majority show only slight losses. CHICAGO.

In the earlier part of the seesion the market was strong most of the time, but toward the close to feeling was one of weakness, accompanied by a decided decline, which left prices at the close considerably lower than yesterday's last figures. There was very little wheat for sale, the liquidation having been apparently very complete, and the buying was fair, both to cover short sales and for a scalp on the buil side. There was a recession after the opening on foreign advices quoting weakness in prices, which caused free selling. The shorts took advantage of the rituation to buy, causing a raily, but in the afternoon it was rumored that Rassia was preparing to remove the wheat export prohibition, and this caused another break. The market railled again on free buying, but broke once more to inside figures and closed easy. May opened excited and ranged, 91%c, to 92%c, being paid at about the same time in different parts of the pit, broke to Blyge, three to and closed at 91%c. Corn was quiet and steady, with the feeling inclined to firmness, though there were no material changes in value. As a rule trade was slow and the market without much feature, fluctuations were confined to a range of 34c, closing at the bottom and close to yesterday's last figures. Oats were quiet, steady, and without change, and pork made a sight advance in the early trading in sympathy with wheat, but the heavy receipts of hogs and free selling caused a weak feeling to follow, which prevailed during most of the remainder of the session. The close shows a loss in value, compared with yeaterday, of 20c in pork, 5c in lard, and 7½ and 10c in ribs.
